THE GEORGE WASHINGTON BRIDGE,
NEW YORK CITY

The George Washington Bridge over the Hudson River connects the states of New York and New Jersey. It extends from 179th Street, Manhattan to Fort Lee, N.J. Its overall length is 10,500 feet; the suspension span is 3,500 feet long and is 250 feet above the surface of the Hudson. It has a width of 120 feet. The bridge is used by over 6,000,000 people annually. It took four and one-half years to construct at a cost of $60,000,000 and was opened to traffic on October 25, 1931. This view of the Bridge is from the New Jersey side.

TIMES SQUARE,
NEW YORK CITY

Times Square, probably the world's most famous entertainment center is at the junction of Broadway and Seventh Avenue. Known as the "The Great White Way" because of its profuse and brilliantly lighted aspect at night, it is in the very heart of the theatre and hotel district. Many of New York's most famous restaurants, night clubs and hotels are located right on Times Square or within a few short blocks of the area. Literally millions of visitors come to this famous thoroughfare each year intent on seeing the sights, and tasting the varied night life and superb theatrical entertainment. It is the magnet of all travellers who come to New York and has been justly designated the "Crossroads of the World". Times Square is so named because of the New York Times Building, which fills the triangle at the south end of the square where Broadway and Seventh separate and meet 42nd street.

BROOKLYN BRIDGE AND LOWER
MANHATTAN, NEW YORK CITY

Brooklyn Bridge spans the East River at the Lower end of Manhattan and connects New York with Brooklyn. In its day Brooklyn Bridge represented a world-famed engineering achievement. Construction began in 1870 and it was finally opened to traffic and pedestrians in 1883. The Span is suspended on four cables each 3578 feet long and each made up of 5296 wires. The length of the river span is 1595 feet and the total length of the Bridge is 6537 feet with a width of 85 feet. The background shows the lower New York skyline as seen from the Brooklyn side of the East River. Included in the buildings seen are, on the left, the City Bank, Farmers Trust, 60 Wall St. Tower, with the Bank of Manhattan behind it and the Woolworth Building at the extreme right.

AIRVIEW OF LOWER MANHATTAN,
NEW YORK CITY

At the lower end of 16-mile long Manhattan Island is the Battery, so-called because of the guns placed there in the 19th century as part of the defence of New York. Battery Park covers 21 acres. Looking northward from the Battery an imposing group of New York's world-famous skyscrapers are visible including The Bank of Manhattan Building, the Woolworth Building, the Cities Service Building, the Whitehall Building, the Telephone and Telegraph Building, the Standard Oil Building, and other giants in New York's famous financial district. At the right may be seen the Brooklyn, Manhattan, and Williamsburg Bridges spanning the East River and connecting the boroughs of Manhattan and Brooklyn. In the back ground of this picture, taken from the flagship of the American Air Lines may be seen the Empire State Building and the RCA Building in Radio City.

GIRAFFE and GRANT GAZELLE

African streams often fail in dry regions and water is available only in holes where the geological formation lets it come to the surface by seepage. Many animals flock here to drink, including the reticulated giraffe (Girafa camelopardalis reticulata) and the oryx (Oryx beisa). The bongo is the forest relative of the eland and koodoo. Its rich, deep coloration blends well with the dark heavy rain forests to which the animal is restricted. EAST AFRICAN PLAINS GROUP

Among the antelopes in the herds of game still roaming the East African plains are kongoni hartebeest (Alcelaphus cokii kongoni) and Thomson gazelles (Gazella thomsonii). The hartebeest, with its high forehead and bracket-shaped horns is characteristic of this region. Thomson gazelles, called "tomnies" by hunters, are common in East Africa. They are one of the tamest of the gazelles. In the background behind the "tomnies" are Roberts gazelles (Gazella granti robertsi), larger than the others.

GEMSBOK
(Oryx gazella)

The gemsbok, the largest antelope of the genus Oryx, is known by its long, slightly curved horns. All are handsome animals with compact bodies and showy markings, but the most striking is the gemsbok. It is found in southwestern Africa, mostly in desert areas from Angola and the Kalahari Desert to the northern parts of Cape Province.

ROYAL CANADIAN MOUNTED POLICE

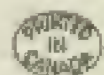

Famed in song and story throughout the world the Royal Canadian Mounted Police symbolize the proud qualities of Canadians everywhere. The public know them best in their bright red tunics, wide-brimmed hats, and erectly mounted on spirited horses. To-day the force administers law and order all across the Arctic in addition to the rural areas of Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. It has jurisdiction anywhere in the Dominion. Inscribed on the regimental colours are records of the Empire's wars in which the Force has taken part. Honours include the Riel Rebellion in Western Canada in 1885, the South African War at the turn of the century, the Great War of 1914-18 and the Expedition into Siberia at the end of the European conflict. The force was formed in 1873 to provide protection for settlers in the Canadian west. You see them here performing their renowned "musical ride" a master-piece of showmanship and skill.

44384

THE CONTOUR OF NIAGARA FALLS is constantly changing from the effects of frost, erosion and undermining of the rocks by falling water. Because of these workings of nature, the American Falls has been changed in the past few years from almost a straight front to the ragged crest line shown in this picture.

ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH
CHARLESTON, S. C.—80

This is one of the historic churches in America. It is located at the southeast corner of Meeting and Broad Streets. The Cornerstone was laid in 1752; the bells and clock brought from England in 1764, and the organ in 1768.

Dear Mike, Spent a few days in this region with E. Peters. Some wonderful islands off the coast. Tell your ma if it is all right with her, I will probably be up on Sat. July 17.
Love, H.

MT. SHUKSAN AND PICTURE LAKE IN SCENIC WASHINGTON—P81

Rugged Mt. Shuksan is one of the many Alp-like snow covered peaks in Washington's mountainous wonderland, a familiar but breath taking view for the thousands of sportsmen who are lured to this region of trout stocked, clear cold lakes.

We had a lovely trip out here. Expect to be here in Longview a week
then fly from Portland to Seattle - then on to Vancouver Island
by boat. We can see the snow-capped
mts. from here
Love Gen
